NOTES IN SEASON.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce for issue in October Jack London's new novel, "The Sea-Wolf," which is now running as a serial in The Century Magazine.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, are about to issue a translation from the Swedish, by Rebecca Blair Flandrau, of Alexandria Kielland's novel, "Professor Loodahl."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will very shortly bring out the third volume in Andrew Lang's "History of Scotland," to be completed in four volumes. In the first two volumes the author has endeavored to introduce the personal element when vouched for by documents and contemporary letters.

GEORGE BRUMDER, Milwaukee, has just published a simple little story of a "little green-horn" who makes his way up in the new world, appropriately entitled "Pluck." The story is written by Judge George Grimm, of Jefferson, Wis., widely known throughout the State as an able lawyer, jurist and orator.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out a new illustrated edition of "The Sign of the Cross," by the late Wilson Barrett. This edition contains eight illustrations that are reproductions of scenes taken from the play. They have in preparation a posthumous novel by Mr. Barrett, entitled "The Never-Never Land."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish in September a notable book in "Letters from the Holy Land," by Ernest Renan. The book will contain the correspondence of Renan with M. Berthelot while gathering material in Italy and the Orient for the famous "Life of Jesus." In these letters the marvellous style of the great Frenchman is revealed in an attitude of abandon not found in his more celebrated works, and full of freshness and charm. Frankness marks all the communications. The letters have been translated by Lorenzo O'Rourke, who contributes an introduction.

THE HOME PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, will publish on August 15 a new novel by Archibald Claverling Gunter, entitled "My Japanese Prince." Though the very peculiar story takes place in Tokyo and Manchuria, the heroine of it is an American girl; the daughter of a great bridge contractor erecting bridges on the Trans-Siberian Railroad for the Russian Government. Appreciating that the book will have a very large sale, the publishers are preparing to issue a popular edition in cloth at fifty cents a copy, so as to put it within the reach of everybody, and yet in a cover sufficiently attractive for any library. The book will also be published uniform with Mr. Gunter's other works at $1.50 a volume.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish early in August the novel upon which Irving Bacheller, author of "Eben Holden," has been at work for two years past, the title of which is "Vergilius." The story is a radical departure from Mr. Bacheller's other works. The hero is a young patrician of Rome, in the lax days just preceding the nativity, and the story is essentially one of love and of plot and counterplot, with a spiritual undertone. There are scenes in the book that are promised to prove a great surprise to the admirers of this author, the incident of the hero's desperate contest with his enemy at the Herodian games being one of the most dramatic. The publishers have decided to make a departure also in the matter of cost, and instead of this being the usual $1.50 novel, "Vergilius" will be published at the popular price of $1.35, which, under the rules at which fiction may be sold, will bring the selling price down to one dollar, in some cases, possibly, to ninety-eight cents.

Alborn, G. C. Ish Kerioth: the story of a traitor. Bost., Morning Star Publishing House, 1904. c. '03. 6+263 p. por. D. cl., $1.

Ish Kerioth (Man of Kerioth) is quoted as the probable Hebrew original of the Greek English Iscariot. In order to preserve the Jewish atmosphere of the story this form of the name is retained. The author's purpose is to interpret the character and motives of the traitor apostle. The events are presented from Judas' point of view according to the Gospels. The tale is founded on several years' study of the life of Judas as depicted by Biblical authorities.

The author of "Dodo" under the above title writes a novel of English home life. The Challoners consisted of Helen and her twin brother Martin, and their father the Honorable and Reverend Sidney Challoner, who had lost his beautiful Italian wife when the twins were babies. His children are a great trial to Mr. Challoner, from the difference in their characters. Martin has a genius for music, and neglects his studies, failing to enter Cambridge. Helen is loved by a man who is an atheist, and whom she refuses to give up at her father's request. The story is well carried through, with plenty of bright dialogue.

For reasons of his own, the writer withholds his name, although it is admitted he is a prominent railroad man of New York. It was at the suggestion of a well-known literary man met on an ocean voyage that he dictated these amusing chapters from his own experience. Beginning with his life when a boy, he shows how by his own efforts he rose to positions of trust and finally became a railroad man. The book is rich in anecdotes that will especially appeal to railroad men.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 30, 1904.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BOOK EXHIBITS AT THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE EXPOSITION.

FRANCE.

OF the foreign book exhibits displayed in the Palace of Liberal Arts that made by the French booktrade, collectively, is easily first in point of attractiveness. In making the grand tour of the grounds from the West to the East, and entering the central doorway of the Palace, the legend, "France," over the portal to the right directs the visitor to the book exhibit which appropriately occupies the place of honor in the arrangement of the spacious suite of exhibits under the direction of the French Republic. The book exhibit which was installed under the supervision of M. Emil Terquem, an officier d'Instruction publique, whose wide experience as director of French book exhibits at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, and of the American book exhibits at the world's fairs in Paris in 1878, 1889 and 1900, is also in evidence in St. Louis. It is at present in charge of his son, M. Jean Terquem, a very capable young man, whose thorough training in France, Germany and England, especially his command of three languages, gives him the advantage of most representatives of foreign exhibitors as a cicerone through the section entrusted to his care. M. Terquem has indeed succeeded in making an ideal book corner of his space. The large reading-table in the centre, the comfortable chairs surrounding it, and the plentitude of magazines, catalogues and directories, all placed generously at the disposal of the public, make the book exhibit of the French section unique in itself and altogether delightful. The catalogue of the exhibit is a gem of bookmaking, printed on excellent paper, many of the pages bordered with a red line, illustrated with choice etchings, engravings and plates, many of them printed in colors, and bound in blue grained morocco. Prefacing the catalogues proper is a brief account of the Cercle de la Librairie, with illustrations showing the exterior and the principal rooms of the home of the Cercle, a list of the presidents of the Cercle from 1847 to 1901, a list of the societies allied with the booktrade organization, etc. To this prefatory matter is added a facsimile reproduction of a fragment of a map of old Louisiana, prepared by Sr. Delisle in 1718. In all there are 230 small quarto pages, describing the principal lines of fifty of the 121 exhibitors.

In the wall and low cabinet cases there is a perfect system of arrangement. Beginning at the left with the publications of the Cercle de la Librairie we find the collections of such publishers as Théophile Belin, A. Rouquette and R. Ferrond, some in magnificent editions, notably a $700 copy of "Paul and Virginia," a $120 edition of Fontaine's "Les Amours de Psyché et de Cupidon" and a "History of Dancing in Paris," ("Paris Dansant,") by Georges Montorgueil, while M. de Brunoff et Cie show the last work of J. James Tissot in a $500 Bible, with four hundred colored etchings by the great artist. With the collection shown by the Cercle de la Librairie is the exhibit of the Cent-Bibliophiles, whose publications are only for its members. Grouped about these collections are the exhibits of the archaeological works made by A. Picard et Fils, the different collective exhibits of Dr. Pozzi, and Guilmot's new work on Louisiana, ("Last Years of French Louisiana.") In fact, all of the more important publishers, binders and engravers are thoroughly represented in their best books on every line of thought. Architectural books from Charles Schmid, Émile Thégard, E. Ducher and Armand Guérinet; art works published by Henri Laurens and Edouard Rouveyre; scientific books from Ch. Béranger, Bernard & Co. and A. Gauthier-Villars; literary and classical publications from Flammarion, Colin, Hetzel, Belin Frères, Plon, Houssiaux, Delagrave, Hachette, Jules Tallandier, Picard & Kaan, Larousse, Coulet, Lemerre and Enoch & Co. E. & A. Durand et Fils show music publications, and all the Paris fashion periodicals are bound and on display. Bound missals with handsome enamels, Jules Hauteceur's hand etchings on parchment, embossed leather bindings by St. Andre de Lignereux, and crushed levant morocco bindings hand-tooled from Mercier, Gruel, Chambolle, Lortic and David are among the most noteworthy works exhibited by the bookbinders. Upon the walls are framed original drawings and etchings, among which those from Publications Illustrées pour la Jeunesse are particularly worth inspection.

GERMANY.

From the French section of the Palace of Liberal Arts the visitor passes to the east end of the building, where Germany's immense and comprehensive exhibit of books and book-making and, one might almost say, the technique of books, is under the charge of Mr. F. Walter Degener, representative of the German Bookcraft Association. It is unfortunate that many of the articles in this exhibit have been damaged because of the insufficient protection afforded against the snow and rain by defects in the roof and through the carelessness of painters and decorators, none of which damage has been made good by the Exposition Company. But in spite of these drawbacks the exhibit is in fine order, occupying several rooms—the books, engravings and the reproductive processes, bookbinding, printing presses and machinery, etc., all being comprehended in the book exhibit. The official catalogue of this exhibit, which is being printed at the Imperial Printing Office at Berlin under the direction of Professor Peter Behrens, director of the technical art school at Düsseldorf, has been delayed, and may not be ready until the latter part of August. The volume will be a quarto of 580 pages, bound in grey leather with ornate decorations.

In the main room pre-empted by the publishers of miscellaneous books are shown the productions of 249 different firms. To specialize would take too much space. It must suffice to say that everywhere is noticeable a great advance in the art of bookmaking. It has heretofore been a weakness of the German publisher to make the exterior of his books as plain and uninviting as the contents of the books were solid and of lasting literary value. Since the fair at Chicago a marked change has taken place, and while many of the exteriors still lack the grace and attractiveness of the ordinary French and American book, they give promise of reaching that standard in another decade if not sooner.

Everywhere with the books are shown art photographs, engravings, colored plates and specimens of the reproductive processes. Among the more noticeable of these are the chromo-lithographic work shown by the Bookcraft Association of Leipzig; the fine large maps and globes printed by Dietrich Reimer, of Berlin; the series of plates, (ninety-one in number,) of minerals from the splendid work "Das Mineralreich," by Dr. Reinhard Brauns, published by Lehmann, of Stuttgart; and the exhibit of woodcuts from the Illustrirte Zeitung shown by J. J. Weber, of Leipzig, etc.

In the room devoted to chromo-lithographic work, etchings, etc., Meissner & Buch, of Leipzig, show their fine souvenir postal cards, etc., and Ernst Nister, of Nürnberg, his English juveniles, with fine colored illustrations, colored greeting cards and art reproductions on china. In this section will also be found a curio entitled "Marksteine aus der Weltliteratur in Original Schriften," being examples of all written languages in pages with decorated borders and illuminations, with corresponding pages in a German translation. There is also shown here a complete exhibit of comic periodicals, magazines, folios, albums and gift books.

In the room occupied by the music publishers there are six thousand different new music books, technical and popular. The walls of this room are appropriately decorated with pictures of the great masters of music.

One small room of the exhibit is devoted entirely to the exhibit of German national pictures and to the Golden Book of the Germans, on the pages of which many sons and daughters of the Fatherland are inscribing their names as return greetings to those of the German Emperor, the German Federal princes, the statesmen, artists and scholars who created the book.

The most interesting single exhibit of this great conglomerate of exhibits is that made by the Imperial Printing Office of Berlin, beginning with its artistic sign board bearing Schiller's words,

"Körper und Stimme verleiht die Schrift dem stummen Gedanken, Durch der Jahrhunderte strom trägt ihn das redende Blatt."

translated into twenty-six languages, among them indifferently into English as follows:

"Writing lends both body and voice to the thought that was voiceless,
On with the current of time borne by the eloquent page."

In this exhibit are shown, among others, the exquisite edition of "Die Nibelunge," published by Stargart, of Berlin; Botticelli's drawings for Dante's "Divine Comedy," reproduced in phototype for Grote of Berlin; heliographic copies in colored copper-plate prints of engravings and mezzotints; artistic bookbindings, and specimens of hand-made papers with artistic water-marks.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Great Britain is represented by the exhibits of fifty-three firms, each showing a small collection of miscellaneous books ranging from superb editions de luxe to an ordinary shilling book. The Oxford University Press makes a fine showing of educational and scientific books and of their Bibles, liturgies, etc. Rivière, Zaehnsdorf and Cedric Chivers show fine specimens of their book bindings.

In the Irish Village on "The Pike" are several cases of books, from Brown & Nolan, Sealy, Bryers & Walker and M. H. Gill, of Dublin, including some miscellaneous collections, Irish book-plates and some good hand-tooling from the Dun Emer Industries. There are also shown here some interesting volumes in the Loan and Historical Collection, including the Keltic Book of Legain, the Book of Ballymote, the Book of Leinster and Leabhar Breac.

OTHER FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

ARGENTINIA has a large collection of newspapers and periodicals.

BELGIUM in its national building shows a number of school and university textbooks, pamphlets, periodicals, etc.

BRAZIL shows official and practical documents, books on agriculture and kindred subjects.

CHINA, in the Palace of Liberal Arts, shows a book of manuscript essays by Chien Lung, Emperor from 1736-1796.

CUBA shows magazines, commercial and medical reviews, newspapers, and some educational books.

ITALY has a small exhibit of technical books on mural construction, natural history and geography, and a small collection of fiction and poetry.

JAPAN in an attractive booth in the Palace of Liberal Arts prints a Japanese-American Weekly.

A. L. A. HINTS TO BOOKBUYERS.

A NEW rule of U. S. Treasury Department requires importers to file at custom house, within 90 days of entry, receipts for all books imported free of duty. In spite of protests a decision has just confirmed this regulation. Renewed protests are now in order from all librarians. They may be based upon the following facts: (1) The receipt is no further preventive of fraud than the affidavit already furnished by the librarian and the importer. (2) The new regulation makes extra work for the importer as well as for the librarian and for the liquidating division of the custom house. Importers are hinting that this may make necessary an increase of rates to libraries. (3) This new regulation if insisted upon will tend to discourage importation and correspondingly cripple the libraries in their work.

About a month after the regulation came into force, the Secretary of the Treasury sent out a Department letter to all collectors asking them to construe liberally the law regarding free importation for public institutions. This may mean that the head of the Department will be inclined to act favorably on requests that the regulation be rescinded. Address protests to him or to any member of Congress.

The total cost of a book is represented by first cost plus cost of preserving and caring for it during its life. At the end of its life it must be replaced. Counting the expense of mending, rebinding and replacement, the total cost of a so-called "cheap" edition to the library for a period of years may exceed that of a better book with a stronger binding. A recent experiment with extra stout bindings showed that a well-bound popular book may circulate once a week for two years without rebinding, while ordinary bindings may wear out twice in this time, necessitating, besides the expense of rebinding, the withdrawal of the book from circulation for several weeks or even months. In such cases it will pay to have a stout binding to start with.

On the other hand, a book that circulates only twice a year and then among people who will give it careful use, does not need to be so strongly bound. Money spent on mere strength in this case might be wasted.

Doubleday, Page & Co. furnish their books in extra strong bindings if desired, charging a small advance in price for them. Doubtless other publishers would do the same if there should be sufficient demand. Cedric Chivers, of Bath, England, procures sheets of standard and current works direct from publishers and binds them with very exceptional strength. Send for his catalogue. Mr. Chivers is about to start a branch bindery in New York, which he expects to open in November. Several binders in this country offer special forms of strong library binding.

A MEDICAL GRAMMARIAN.

J. D. SYLVIVS, born in 1478, whose name is so associated with the anatomy of the brain, according to the Medical Book News, was a famous grammarian in his day and wrote a popular Latin grammar. The Gazette médicale de Paris states that he was the first to propose and use two distinct letters for i and j, and for u and v. He was also the originator of the French accents, distinguishing between the three sounds of e: e, è and é. Several members of the Etienne family, the celebrated printing firm, were also physicians.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROFESSOR EDUARD MURET, the well-known lexicographer, editor of Muret's "Encyclopædic English-German and German-English Dictionary," etc., died July 3, at Gross-Lichterfelde, near Berlin, Prussia.

WILLIAM DAVENPORT ADAMS, author and journalist, died in London, July 27. Mr. Adams, who had been head of the reviewing department of the London Globe since 1885, was born in Edinburgh, in 1851. Before his connection with the Globe he was editor of several provincial papers. Mr. Adams wrote many books, among them a "Dictionary of English Literature," "By-Ways in Bookland," "A Book of Burlesque," "Lyrics of Love," "Song of Society," etc. "A Dictionary of the Drama," upon which he was engaged for many years, is about to be published by Chatto & Windus.

JOHN ROGERS, the sculptor of the famous "groups" of Civil War days, died at his home in New Canaan, Conn., July 26. Mr. Rogers was born in Salem, Mass., in 1829, and first started in business as a clerk in a dry goods store. Later he spent seven years in Manchester, N. H., learning the trade of a machinist. In 1857 he was at Hannibal, Mo., when the panic broke out and threw him out of work. He then determined to cultivate his talent for sculpture and went to Rome and Paris. His first group, "The Checker Players," was finished in 1859. When the war broke out he produced "The Slave Auction," that quickly made his name known. Then followed "The Picket Guard," "The Union Refugees," "Sharpshooters," and a number of other groups, all of the same general style. These "groups" for years were a favorite and very profitable side line of the booksellers throughout the country.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE veteran Norwegian author, Jonas Lie, intends to leave Paris, where he has been living for many years, and reside for the future in Norway.

THE anonymous author of "The Life of a Prig" has written "The Adventures of King James the Second of England," which will be published in the fall by Longmans, Green & Co.

It is announced that the English memorial to R. D. Blackmore, author of "Lorna Doone" has not only been fully paid for by the subscriptions, but the committee reports a surplus of £20, which has been presented to the Pension Fund of the Author's Society. As memorial funds are prone to run short of rather than to exceed the required sum, the popularity of the memorial is evident.

CHARLES WAGNER, author of "The Simple Life," and "By the Fireside," has completed his arrangements for a lecture tour in America. He will spend two months or more here, and will be under the management of the J. B. Pond Lecture Bureau. His tour will commence in October, and he will deliver addresses both in French and English to institutions, colleges, etc. He will also deliver a series of lectures for children.

THE admirers of the late Rt. Hon. W. E. H. Lecky, O.M., are making arrangements to erect a memorial on some site within the precincts of Trinity College, Dublin. It has been estimated that a bronze statue by an eminent artist would cost about £1500. The sum of £960 has already been raised by public subscription; the remaining £540, it is believed, will be subscribed by Lecky's many friends and admirers in this country. Subscriptions may be sent to the Honorary Treasurers, Lecky Memorial Fund, 36 Molesworth Street, Dublin.

THOSE readers who are aware that Joseph Conrad is a Pole have probably frequently wondered at his very English-sounding name. The fact is, however, that Mr. Conrad has a name kept hidden, which if he used it would leave no doubt as to his nationality. Should he use his full baptismal title, it would be Joseph Conrad Korzeniowski. Mr. Conrad, when he was a sailor on an English merchantman, found his messmates incapable of handling his jaw-breaking cognomen and therefore dropped it, so English literary people are spared another name to add to the list of impossible ones, which already includes Sienkiewicz, Tourgenieff, Dostoevsky, Hvoschinskaya, etc., etc.

It is proposed as a means of honoring the memory of the late Robert Proctor to collect and publish in one volume all his bibliographical essays and papers, with a memoir prefixed, and to prepare for press, with liberal illustration, the three remaining sections of his "Index of Early Printed Books," comprising the books in the British Museum printed in Italy, France and elsewhere from 1501 to 1520. Under unpaid supervision it is estimated that the preparation of the remaining sections of the Index will cost about $2500, while on the volume of Mr. Proctor's Essays it is proposed to spend about $500. The committee, consisting of the Earl of Crawford, chairman, A. W. Pollard, H. R. Tedder, R. S. Faber, G. K. Fortescue, F. Jenkinson, G. F. Barwick and F. W. Bourdillon will be glad to receive donations either in single sums or in the form of annual subscriptions for four years. All donors of not less than $5 will receive the Memorial volume, and negotiations will be opened with the publishers to enable subscribers to purchase the volume of the Index at a reduced rate. Donations may be sent to H. R. Tedder, treasurer, Athenæum Club, Pall Mall, London.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Scribner's Magazine will hereafter be published in England by William Heinemann.

It is not generally known that Doubleday, Page & Company are issuing a new magazine besides their very successful periodicals, The World's Work and Country Life in America. It is really conducted by their employees as a "house organ," but if outsiders might read it, those who care to know the inside working of a publishing house would have interesting reading.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

In the July issue of The Iowa Journal of History and Politics, published quarterly by the State Historical Society of Iowa, Iowa City, Margaret Budington prints the second instalment of a "Bibliography of Iowa State Publications for 1898 and 1899," the first part of which, covering the years 1900-1901, was published in the Journal for July, 1903. This bibliography gives evidence of great care and is undoubtedly complete, 164 titles being recorded.

W. E. PRICE, 26 East Twenty-first Street, New York, will publish shortly a new issue of "The Author's Year Book," which will be one-third larger than the volume for 1902, the first issue. The volume will contain an address list of nearly 600 publications and publishing houses to whom manuscripts may be sold. Among the more important articles in the new volume will be "The Net Price System and its Relation to Authors," "The Preparation of Manuscript," by Charles Welsh, "English Periodicals and their Contributors," "Books Waiting to be Written," by Page Fox, etc.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Edward Baker, 14 John Bright St.,

Y., Early almanacs, Angling, American Revolution, Genealogy, trials, etc. (No. 44, 275 titles.)—Brooklyn Book Exchange, (Richard E. Call,) 176 Clarkson St., Brooklyn, N. (1766 titles.)—James Irvine, 12 Mimosa St., Fulham, London, S. W., Botanical books, etc. (No. 88, 691 titles.)—Maggs Bros., 109 Strand, London, W., Engravings and etchings. (No. 205, 946 titles.)—Leo S. Olschki, Florence, Miscellaneous. (No. 49, 196 titles.)

BOOKS IN DEMAND.

THE Harpers are printing another edition of Mark Twain's "Extracts from Adam's Diary," which, according to American and English critics, has added materially to the gayety of nations. The publishers have just accorded permission for the translation of the "Diary" into Swedish and its publication in Sweden only.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just sent Charles Battell Loomis's "Cheerful Americans" to press for the seventh time. "The Transgression of Andrew Vane," by the late Guy Wetmore Carryl, has gone into a third edition, and ex-Mayor Quick's boomtown romance, "Aladdin & Co." and "The Diary of a Musician" have gone into a second edition.

THE large first edition of Henry M. Elson's "History of the United States" was exhausted shortly after publication, and the Macmillan Company are about to bring out a second revised edition. Dr. Streeter's account of his farming experiences, "The Fat of the Land," is nearing its fifth edition.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in preparation a copyright edition of the correspondence of Queen Victoria, which is to be brought out in the fall in two or more volumes.

"HOBBS," the last work of the late Sir Leslie Stephen, will follow in the English Men of Letters Series the "Maria Edgeworth," by the Hon. Emily Lawless, which has just appeared. Sir Leslie arranged his biography in a novel manner: the actual "Life" is comprised in the first chapter of seventy pages, instead of in scattered chapters through the book, leaving the other three chapters free for discussions of "Man," "The World," and "The State," as set forth in Hobbes's philosophical works.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY is encouraged to believe that "The Loves of Edwy" promises to become one of the most popular novels of the season. It is written by Rose Cecil O'Neill, the well-known illustrator, whose pictures in Puck and elsewhere have attracted much attention. So great has been the advance demand for this story, which is embellished by over sixty illustrations by the author, that the publishers have decided to increase the size of the first edition, and have postponed the day of publication from the fifteenth to the twenty-ninth of August.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have gotten up an attractive novelty under the general title of The Miniature Name Books. There are 100 books, each with a different girl's name, containing a history of the name, with examples of famous women who have borne it, also, a diary of the year or a birthday book. The volumes are bound in limp morocco, gilt edges, with colored silk book marker and gold lettered with the name. Each is neatly boxed and retails for 40 cents. They have also just brought out "Major Thomson's Bridge Scorer," a convenient pad, holding 50 scores. At the bottom of each score sheet is a perforated section for the loss and gain account that may be detached and kept separately by the players. On the back of the pad is a guide to the scorer, with hints on the declaration by Archibald Dunn.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a collection of Joel Chandler Harris's "Tar-baby" stories which he has put into verse, to be brought out with the title of "The Tar-Baby and Other Songs of Uncle Remus," with illustrations by A. B. Frost and E. W. Kemble; "Forty-five Years Under the Flag," by Admiral Schley, giving a narrative of the admiral's connection with the United States Navy; "Genevra," a Welsh story, by Charles Marriott, author of "The Column," that admirable story of the Cornwall coast; Hall Caine's new story, "The Prodigal Son;" "Bethany, a story of the Old South," by T. E. Watson, author of biographies of Jefferson and Napoleon; "An Act in a Backwater," by E. F. Benson; "The Clock and the Key," a mystery story, by Arthur Henry Vesey; also, "The Misfit Crown," the first book by Frances Davidge, a young New York woman.

THE SEARCH-LIGHT PUBLISHING COMPANY, at 24 Murray Street, New York, have established The Search-Light Information Library that should prove of inestimable value to the publisher as well as to the literary worker. The library already has the largest and most up-to-date collection of classified clippings and pictures, on all subjects, compiled from the newspapers, magazines, books, reports and periodicals of the world, and is daily adding thereto. A publisher in need of illustrated matter, portraits, maps, etc., will find here more in five minutes than he would be likely to discover by independent search in weeks. Authors and newspaper men will find the Search-Light Information Library as useful as an up-to-the-hour encyclopædia would be. The managers of the library are also prepared to supply special articles, with or without illustrations, on any subject and of any length.

S. LAPI, Città di Castello, Italy, has just published four new parts, (22-25) of the revised edition of "Rerum Italicarum Scriptores," the collection of the Italian historians from 500 to 1500, edited by L. A. Muratori and enlarged and corrected under the direction of Giosué Carducci and Vittorio Fiorini. The parts just published contain the "Life of Paul II.," by Gaspar of Verona, giving a valuable account of the society of Rome in the time of Pope Barbo., (1464-71;) the text of the "Chronica Gestorum in partibus Lombardie," an important document of the history of the wars in northern Italy, (1470-1482;) the "Chronicon de rebus in Apulia Gestis," in which the Notary Dominic of Gravina relates the tragic events which took place after the assassination of Andrew, the expedition of Lewis of Hungary, and the civil wars that devastated the kingdom of Naples in the first years of the government of Jane I., (1343-50;) also, the first part of an exhaustive index of the Chronicon Parmense from 1038, which Dr. Julian Bonazzi has constructed upon the mss. in the Palatine library at Parma. Subscriptions may be sent to Professor Silvio Serafini, Città di Castello.

JOHN LANE will publish at once the third volume of the historical sketches of the Theosophical Society by its president-founder, Henry Steel Olcott. This third series, entitled "Old Diary Leaves, the only Authentic History of the Theosophical Society," takes up the narrative in the autumn of 1883 and carries it forward to May, 1887. The first series, covered the period from the meeting of Madame Blavatsky and Mr. Olcott, in 1874, to their departure from New York for Bombay, in December, 1878. The second told of their adventures in India and Ceylon, the formation of branches, the giving of lectures and the healings of the sick by hundreds, with other occult phenomena. In this volume accounts are given of the founder's meeting with several of the "Masters" in the course of his travels, and the results of the same; of the removal of the society's headquarters from Bombay to Madras; Madame Blavatsky's departure from her Indian home into the exile of a European residence. Some space is given to the troublous times of the Coulomb conspiracy, and the subject of the S. P. R. report is vigorously dealt with, in the thought of placing in the hands of all members of the society facts for the refutation of the personal criticism that has been visited upon the name of Madame Blavatsky. An interesting description will also be found in this volume of the building and formal installation of the Adyar Library, with ceremonies conducted by Indian pandits, Buddhist monks, Parsi mobeds and a Moslem maulvi.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

WHO IS THE INTERLOPER ?

"He was young and strong, the fascination of the place he had just left, and the curious readiness of his rather complicated mind to dwell on it, and on the past of which it spoke, ran up, so to speak, against the active perfection of his body."

Mrs. Jacob (author of "The Sheepstealers") tells in "The Interloper" a strong story of human emotions; the characters live, the events enthrall; all is forceful, fateful, concise, poignant. As we close the book we feel that we have been with living men and women.

A GREAT STORY GRANDLY TOLD

The book is being read and discussed everywhere

"A delightful story, excellently told in unaffected, natural style."—Outlook.

"A fine novel from start to finish, written in a brisk and easy style."—Morning Post.

"The writer of this story is distinctly a writer to be reckoned with. It is a remarkable book."—The Athenæum.

Publishers' Trade List Annual

THERE remain only 185 copies of the original Index to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1902, a comprehensive alphabet covering 1100 pages, with which we shall bind up the Supplementary Index, in an additional alphabet, to the new publications in the Trade List Annuals of 1903 and 1904. This will make a volume from 1350 to 1400 pages—which should be on the shelves of every book-store and every library which does not possess a copy of the original Index of 1902. This "Combined Index, 1902-1904," as it is known, will be furnished, to the extent of 185 copies—"first come, first served"—at a rate of $6.00, cloth-bound, previous to publication, which price will probably be increased on the publication of the Supplementary Index, which is furnished separately at the price of $2.50. To those who are unacquainted with this invaluable work of reference, sample pages will be sent on request, or provisional orders will be entered for sending a copy of the work on approval, carriage paid, in case the edition is not exhausted at the time of publication.
